

YOUR FREE PROMPT CHEAT SHEET

AI prompts for plumbers

LESS ADMIN. MORE TIME ON THE TOOLS.

Eight reusable prompts for enquiries, job notes, quotes, bookings, handover messages, payment reminders, honest reviews and local social posts.

How to use the guide

1. Open your approved AI text assistant. Paste the setup prompt below once.
2. Choose a task. Replace the [BRACKETS] with anonymised facts you have checked.
3. Read the Owner checks. Edit the draft and send it yourself.

PASTE THIS SETUP PROMPT ONCE

Help me draft admin messages for a plumbing business. Use only the facts I supply. If something is missing, ask or write [CONFIRM]. Never guess. Do not diagnose faults, give repair or safety instructions, calculate tax, claim certification, set prices or promise availability. Do not send anything or change bookings. Use plain UK English and a warm, professional tone. Separate the customer draft from an 'Owner checks' list. Preserve all placeholders exactly.

Keep customer details out: use placeholders instead of names, addresses, phone numbers, access codes or payment credentials. Reinsert private details outside AI. Follow your business's data rules and the tool's privacy settings.

This guide covers admin drafting. It does not replace trade competence, inspection, technical judgement or professional advice. It does not connect to your diary, send messages or verify payment records.

01 Reply to a customer enquiry

When a new message needs a helpful reply, but you have not agreed a visit.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Draft a reply of up to 80 words to this anonymised enquiry: [ENQUIRY]. My service area is [AREA]. The facts I can confirm are [CONFIRMED FACTS]. No appointment is agreed unless I explicitly say so. Ask up to three useful questions about the issue described, access and preferred dates. Do not diagnose or suggest repairs. If the message sounds urgent or safety-related, flag OWNER REVIEW and do not draft technical advice or promise an emergency response. Use [CUSTOMER] and [BUSINESS] placeholders. Finish with Owner checks: missing information and anything I need to approve.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Check the service area and availability. Handle urgent or safety-related enquiries yourself.

02 Tidy dictated job notes

After a visit, when rough notes need to become a usable record.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Organise these anonymised notes from a completed plumbing visit: [NOTES]. Use headings: Work completed, Parts used, Observations, Follow-up tasks, Missing information. Use only what I recorded. Keep quantities, measurements and model references exactly as supplied. Distinguish completed work from work proposed or not checked. Do not infer that a test passed, invent a diagnosis, add compliance statements or create safety advice. Use [JOB ID] in place of customer identifiers. Return a concise internal record and a separate Owner checks list.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Compare with your original notes. Confirm parts and quantities. Never treat an AI summary as proof of a test or inspection.

03 Format a quote draft

When you already know the scope and have checked your prices.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Format a customer-friendly quote draft using only this approved information. Scope: [SCOPE]. Approved line items and prices: [LINE ITEMS]. Checked total and tax wording from my quoting system: [TOTAL AND WORDING]. Exclusions: [EXCLUSIONS]. Timing I can promise: [TIMING OR NOT AGREED]. Terms I have approved: [TERMS]. Preserve every supplied price. Do not calculate tax, invent totals, add work, discounts, guarantees or certifications. Mark missing details [CONFIRM]. Include scope, supplied prices, exclusions and the next step. End with Owner checks. Use [CUSTOMER] and [BUSINESS] placeholders.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Verify all figures in your quoting system. Confirm scope, exclusions, terms and timing before sending.

04 Confirm a booking

After you and the customer have agreed an appointment.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Draft two messages for this already-agreed appointment: a confirmation of up to 80 words and a reminder of up to 60 words. Confirmed date: [DATE]. Arrival window: [WINDOW]. Job description: [DESCRIPTION]. Access instructions: [APPROVED ACCESS DETAILS]. Rescheduling contact: [CONTACT PLACEHOLDER]. Include only these facts. Do not create an appointment, change the diary, imply a live calendar check, add charges or promise an exact arrival time. If a field is missing, flag it for me instead of guessing. Return both drafts and Owner checks. Keep [CUSTOMER] and [BUSINESS] placeholders.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Verify the diary, date and window. Reinsert private contact or access details outside the AI tool.

05 Send a job completion summary

When the customer needs a clear account of completed work.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Write a customer summary of up to 120 words from these approved completion notes: [COMPLETED WORK]. Parts I want mentioned: [PARTS]. Care instructions already approved by me: [INSTRUCTIONS OR NONE]. Agreed next step: [NEXT STEP OR NONE]. Explain the completed work in plain language. Preserve the meaning of my care instructions. Do not invent maintenance, repair or safety advice, warranties, test results or compliance claims. If no instructions are supplied, leave that section out. Keep work still proposed separate from work completed. Return the customer draft and Owner checks. Use [CUSTOMER] and [BUSINESS].

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Approve every technical statement. Confirm the message matches the work actually completed.

06 Draft a payment reminder

After you check that an invoice is still unpaid and due.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Draft a polite payment reminder of up to 90 words for this checked unpaid invoice. Invoice reference: [REFERENCE]. Amount due, exactly as checked: [AMOUNT]. Due date: [DUE DATE]. Approved payment link placeholder: [PAYMENT LINK]. Tone: friendly and matter-of-fact. Ask the customer to let me know if they have already paid or have a question. Do not add interest, fees, legal threats, new terms or bank/card details. Do not claim to have checked payment status yourself. Return the draft and Owner checks. Use [CUSTOMER] and [BUSINESS] placeholders.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Recheck payment status, amount, date and the real payment link before you send.

07 Ask for an honest review

After completed jobs, as a consistent part of your customer workflow.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Write a thank-you and review request of up to 60 words after this completed job: [APPROVED ONE-LINE JOB SUMMARY]. Use my verified review-link placeholder: [REVIEW LINK]. Invite honest feedback without requesting a star rating. Do not write a review for the customer, invent praise, offer rewards or pressure them. Keep the message suitable for all completed customers, not just those likely to give positive feedback. Return the draft and Owner checks. Use [CUSTOMER] and [BUSINESS] placeholders.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Use the correct review link. Send consistently without filtering customers by likely rating.

08 Turn a real job into a social post

When a completed job can explain what your business does locally.

COPY THIS PROMPT

Draft an Instagram caption of 70-100 words about this real completed job: [ANONYMISED APPROVED JOB SUMMARY]. My service area is [AREA]. My business voice is [TONE]. Approved next step for enquiries: [CTA]. Use a clear first line, explain the job in plain English and naturally mention my area and service. Suggest up to five relevant hashtags. Do not identify the customer, reveal an address, invent savings, results, testimonials, certifications or guarantees. Do not give repair or safety instructions. Do not claim an image is from this job unless I confirm that it is. Return the caption and Owner checks.

BEFORE YOU USE IT

Verify every claim. Get permission for customer photos and remove identifying details.

YOUR FIRST WORKFLOW

One task is enough

Choose one enquiry reply. Use a past, anonymised message so you can compare the draft with what you actually sent. Record the time it takes, including your checks. Keep the prompt only if it helps.

EXAMPLE INPUT FOR PROMPT 01

Enquiry: A customer asks whether I can look at a dripping kitchen tap next week. Service area: [AREA].
Confirmed facts: I offer domestic plumbing visits. No appointment is agreed. I need their approximate area, preferred days and access arrangements.

ILLUSTRATIVE REPLY DRAFT

Thanks for getting in touch, [CUSTOMER]. Could you share your approximate area, your preferred days next week and any access arrangements? That will help me check whether I can offer a visit. I'll confirm availability before we agree an appointment. Thanks, [BUSINESS].

YOUR CHECK BEFORE SENDING

No date, diagnosis or price has been promised. Check availability yourself, then replace the placeholders outside the AI tool. If an enquiry concerns urgency or safety, handle it yourself rather than relying on this template.

The final check

- [] Facts match your notes, quote, invoice or diary.
- [] Missing details are flagged, not invented.
- [] You have approved all prices, promises and technical wording.
- [] Customer information and photos have the right permissions.
- [] You decide what to send and when to send it.

Keep the best draft as a reusable template. Try another task only when the first one works for you.
